Previous maps will be on display at the event as well as an excerpt on Eventor. Crocodile Reservoir was fieldworked and drawn in 1984-1985 by VOA orienteers for the WOC 85 program and was first used for the Australian Long Champs in 1985. It was updated, extended and redrawn on OCAD by Alex Tarr 2007-2009 as Choke'em Gully for the Easter Carnival.

The 'Evenmoore' map is printed on bright white 130gsm coated paper for maximum readability in poly bags. It has been remapped by Alex Tarr and drawn to the latest ISOM 2017 standard.

Terrain

The terrain is a mixture of gold-mining and challenging spur-gully, sometimes both at once, with a complex track network. The map has been field-checked by Alex Tarr in early 2018. This section offers excellent orienteering and has not been used in maybe twenty years.

There are some areas with tree thinnings in rocky areas which can be slow-going – these are mapped as slow-run or with vertical green stripes.

There are many deep pits, taped blue & yellow where adjacent to controls.

Carrying a whistle is recommended. Safety bearing West 270 degrees to the sealed Chewton-Fryerstown Rd.

Drink stations are placed on key track junctions throughout the competition area.
