Orienteering is an environmentally sustainable, adventurous and fun activity for all the family. Our rogaïne-style score events are back, with this urban/bush event. Gather your team of 2 – 5 people and put your navigation skills to the test, while enjoying a fun day out.

Your challenge involves reading a map with “control points” marked on it, then finding these locations in the real world. At each location there will be an orange and white orienteering control flag and an electronic recording system for you to register your visit. Each control has a point score and your aim is to visit controls in any order, such that you amass as big a score as possible within the time limit.

Your team chooses their challenge: as many points as possible within either 1 hour, 2 hour or 3 hour time limits.
