

Course 5 Hint for Today

Many of your controls on today's course are placed on old water channels

They were manmade and used to move water to the thousands of gold miners in the area.

You will see them on many orienteering maps in Victoria

On the map they are shown as a row of brown dots that follow the contour lines.

You can follow the channel all the way OR if you feel confident you can go over the spur and you will find the same channel on the other side.

The control description may be small erosion gully bend.

On the ground the water channel will look something like this
